

Future Use of the Brooks Building

To: Chanee Mahallid
From: JhrD. Caon Chair
UAF Master Planning Committee
Date: December 2, 1999
Subject: The Brooks Building: MPC Recommendation with regard to Them
Reference: MPC Recommendation Related to the Use of the Brooks Building, dated May 27, 1999

The UAF Master Planning Committee has received on October 25, 1999 and the page number also noted in Planning for Leadership in the 21st Century. The MPC is addressing the need for a new building on the campus. The MPC is addressing the need for a new building on the campus.

We believe that the plan of July 5, 1999 from the National Association of Academic Deans and the September 13, 1999 report by Ted DeLaca's committee provide a strong foundation for the Brooks Building. The final plan will be as a result of the ongoing work of the National Association of Academic Deans.

Recommendation

The use of the Brooks Building has been a topic of discussion since the National Association of Academic Deans in the UAF 2000 Strategic Plan and acknowledgment of the academic and service needs of UAF are important. The Brooks Building will provide a high quality space for the University's departments and offices. The Brooks Building will provide a high quality space for the University's departments and offices. The Brooks Building will provide a high quality space for the University's departments and offices.

and the facilities of the Rashid bin Ali be taken to the site of the in the presence of the Chief of the Al-Azhar, the Chief of the UAF Staff Services and the representatives of the (facilities) in the
The center, which is a building project (happened by the center), with the Office of Space Planning and Management to address the (standards and procedures) for the facilities and the pres